Elementary teachers expressed concerns regarding the progress reports mandated by the Instructional Services Division in 2018-2019. Last spring MTA conducted a survey asking the following questions:

- How satisfied are you with the shift from trimesters to semesters?
- How well was the quarter/semester schedule aligned to parent conferences this year?
- Was it an improvement to give the parents the report card just before the Winter Break?
- How well did the new progress report help inform the parents of their child's academic development?
- How well was the new progress report aligned to the report card?
- How efficient was it to fill out, print, and distribute the new progress reports?
